

Additional Information

You can find additional information about participating in a research protocol or find studies you may be able to join by checking information at your hospital, support groups, local library or on the internet. Here are some examples of the information you may find.

- x Information about federally and privately funded clinical research www.clinicaltrials.gov
- x Information about NIH Clinical Research Trials www.nih.gov/health/information/nih-clinical-research.../finding-clinical-trial
- x Registry to match researchers with those who are interested in participating in research www.researchmatch.org/
- x Clinical trial information for patients and general resources www.centerwatch.com
- x Videos, information, FAQs and additional resources related to participation in research.
www.hhs.gov/AboutResearchParticipation
- x Froedtert Hospital clinical trial information www.froedtert.com/clinicaltrials

For additional information contact:
Research Subject Advocate at

Research Participation at the Medical College of Wisconsin

The Medical College of Wisconsin faculty and staff conduct a variety of human subject research projects from community based research to record reviews, basic science, translational research and